

Sighted: 2/29/2008

Description

“Art still has truth, take refuge in it”

What? I have no clue what moron would make such a ludicrous statement, let alone wear it in public on a t-shirt. I wonder if they think every painting really represents a real image any one of us could have observed. Talk about “living in a fantasy world!” I’ll blame it on the NEA, who has failed to provide the asterisked disclosure for art teaches to read verbatim to students letting them know some art is called “impressionistic” for a reason.

Ponder it. If you can explain it to me, I will read your comments carefully...

Category

1. Bumper Stickerisms

Date Created

March 2, 2008

Author

admin

default watermark